Say it in CODE

The RUBY REDFORT CODE (p. 108) uses one word to mean another (for example, bad = tapioca because Ruby thinks tapioca is a horrible pudding). Can you match the words below with their code definition?

Good

Dangerous

Bad

Trouble

Cool

Tapioca

Pizza

Dirty Dog

Clancy Crew

Hogtrotter

PICTURE this!

Mr. Washington asks Clarice Bean and the other students to draw “a picture of the inside of their head” (p. 113). As Clarice explains, “He means all the whirling thoughts and information and how does it feel sometimes when you are FED UP or in a RAGE or chirpy or utterly bored.” Take a minute to think about what’s going on in your own mind, and then draw a picture of the inside of your head.
