

See the Dog

Three Stories
About a Cat

David LaRochelle

illustrated by Mike Wohnoutka

WINNERS OF A THEODOR SEUSS GEISEL AWARD

See the Dog

Three Stories
About a Cat

David LaRochelle

illustrated by Mike Wohnoutka

What happens when a cat tries to be a dog? In the sequel to See the Cat, readers will find that standing in for a friend can be trickier than expected.

Use See the Dog: Three Stories About a Cat in your classroom to teach about comparisons, opinions, and homonyms.

HC: 978-1-5362-1629-5 • Also available as an e-book

See the Dog

- The cat does not like to dig or jump in water, but the dog would. As a class, make a list of the differences between cats and dogs. Then make a list of their similarities.
- Have each student write about which they would rather be, a cat or a dog. Their writing should include reasons for their preference.
- Explore homonyms with your students. When the cat says “The dog is sick today” and “I am sick of being a dog,” the word sick means two different things even though it is spelled and sounds the same. With your students, make a list of other words that are homonyms. Keep it on the wall of the classroom and encourage students to add to it as they discover new ones.

